Starting in Fall 2015, BYU–Hawaii will be implementing a new academic calendar. In an academic year, there will be three equal 14-week semesters with a 7-week break between Spring and Fall semesters. 2015 will be a transition (hybrid) year. For that year there will only be a 7-week Summer session (Summer A) followed by the new 7-week break, with Fall semester beginning in August—see Timeline of first academic year with new calendar below. BENEFITS

3 Equal Semesters
- 14 weeks
- Graduation at the end of each semester

Summer Break - 7 weeks between Spring and Fall
- Longer internships
- More time to work, earn and recharge

3 Starting Points
- Fall semester starts in August
  (ideal for recent U.S. high school graduates)
- Winter semester starts in November
- Spring semester starts in March
  (ideal for many from the Pacific and Asia)

Scholarship flexibility
- Institutional scholarships are based on current CGPA, not previous semester enrollment
- Options to take a one-semester leave of absence or online-only semester

Enhanced internship options
- More time for internships in peak zone
  (7-week break + Fall semester = 21 weeks)
  (Spring semester + 7-week break = 21 weeks)

Christmas Break - 2 weeks in middle of Winter semester
- No major assignments over the break
- Chance to work, earn and recharge
